

Non-Binding Air Service Pledge Form

Delta Air Lines

NOTE: All pledges are due by December 10th.

In an effort to strengthen the area's case for new air service, local businesses and individuals are being asked to support new air service through financial participation in the Central Oregon - Delta Air Lines Airline Travel Bank™ (ATB). The terms and conditions of this arrangement will be finalized in the near future. In the interim, commitments are being sought based on the following:

- Delta Air Lines has indicated that it is close to making a final decision regarding initiating twice daily, non-stop regional jet service between Redmond Municipal Airport and Salt Lake City International Airport in 2005. Prior to making a final service decision, Delta Air Lines needs tangible commitment that the community supports the proposed service. ATB pledges represent that commitment. Once the community has reached its ATB goal these completed pledge forms will be presented to Delta Air Lines to confirm commitment for the contemplated air service.
- Prior to start-up of the proposed service, companies and individuals that have pledged support will be asked to execute an ATB Partner Agreement and deposit the pledged amount in Columbus Bank & Trust (The Central Oregon ATB account will be held in the name of COAST or EDCO with sub accounts for each ATB Partner).
- Columbus Bank & Trust will issue ATB Partners credit cards (VISA) that can be used to access the deposited funds solely for the purpose of purchasing tickets on Delta Air Lines, Delta Connection, and flights that connect to Delta Air Lines' international code-share partners. Monthly credit card activity statements will be provided by Columbus Bank & Trust Company to each ATB Partner.
- The ATB account balance is non-refundable, and must be used 1-year from date of initiation of air service. Any unused portion of the pledge will be refunded to the company/individual in the form of Delta Air Lines air travel vouchers that are valid for an additional 3 months.
- Air travel tickets will be purchased the same as any other air travel transaction with fares, restrictions, etc., applied as usual.
- A provision in the agreement will provide a refund of any unused funds if Delta Air Lines exits the market, is purchased by another airline, or modifies service within the 1-year period.
- Exact terms and conditions of the final agreement between the community and the airlines mentioned herein will be made available prior to execution of ATB Partner Agreements.
